Dr. Ivan I. Morris, Assistant Professor of Japanese at Columbia University, will speak on THE WORLD OF THE TALE OF GENJI: AN INTRODUCTION TO THE FUJIWARA PERIOD at The Cleveland Museum of Art on Wednesday evening, October 11th at 8:15 p.m..

Morris graduated from Harvard and later received his Ph. D. from the University of London. His military service took him to Tokyo and other parts of Japan and was followed by travel in that country, India, Vietnam and Hong Kong.

He has written articles and books on Japan's politics, artists and authors and has translated a number of Japanese novels. He is now working on the conversion of his Ph. D. thesis into a book called THE WORLD OF THE TALE OF GENJI.

Morris' lecture is one in the Junior Council series entitled THE ART OF JAPAN. It will be held in the Museum Auditorium.
